Re: Authority to Sign Allegations and Bargaining Schedule

Dear Mr. Borsos:

During the bargaining session between the District and the Sacramento City Teachers Association (SCTA) on June 23, 2021, you raised allegations again that the District's bargaining team does not have authority to enter into agreements with SCTA and specifically that no one on the District's bargaining team for successor contract negotiations has authority to sign any agreements reached in bargaining. To date, the District and SCTA have not reached any agreements in successor contract negotiations so the concerns raised by SCTA about the authority of the District's bargaining team to reach agreements with SCTA is premature.

In order to address your concerns and allow the District and SCTA to move forward in successor contract negotiations with a clear understanding as to the authority of each bargaining team, this communication confirms that the District's lead negotiator, Pam Manwiller, has authority to sign any tentative agreements reached on behalf of the District in successor contract negotiations.

I also understand that SCTA has provided a proposed bargaining schedule for successor contract negotiations and offered dates beyond the July 20 date agreed to by the District's negotiations team at the last bargaining session. Of the dates offered by SCTA, the District's negotiations team is available on July 20, 22, 27 and 29 and August 3, 5 and during the week of August 9 on August 9, 11 and 12. The District would also like to offer dates before the July 20 bargaining session so that we can continue this important work. The District's team is also available on July 13, 15, 16 and 19 for successor contract negotiations. Please confirm which of these dates are available to SCTA's bargaining team.

Sincerely,

Jorge A. Aguilar
Superintendent
